Student Led Devotion / Fellowship of Christian Athletes

Row 2: L-R: Luke Lauderdale-Leader, Jadus Rivers, Cayson Housley, William Housley, Grant Hitchcock, Tyler Smith, John Hallman-Advisor, Row 1: L-R: Victoria Housley, Maleigh Collier, Kade Baker, Josh Neal, Sam Rodgers, Pierce Thornton, Darren Kennedy

#SYATP

Luke Lauderdale leads See You at the Pole in worship songs. He said, "See You at the Pole is important to get more people involved in Christ. If someone sees their friends doing something, they'll copy it. I just want people to hear, no matter the reason."

Challyn Rice got caught reading A Time to Kill during Banned Book Week!

A group of students end See You at the Pole in prayer.

Library Club

practiced reading her picture book

The 2017 theme verse for See You at the Pole[™] is Hebrews 12:2.

"... Fixing our eyes on Jesus, the pioneer and perfecter of faith.

Students break into small groups to pray at See You At the Pole.

and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God."

For the joy set before him he endured the cross, scorning its shame, during a library club meeting to get ready to read to the younger students.

Row 3: L-R: Grant Hitchcock, Taylor Randolph, Trey O'Neal-President, Madison Shumpert-Vice-President, Joshua Lochridge, Carley Pannell, Grace Oswalt, Makayla Dobbs, Row 2: L-R: Sarah Raper-AB, Mary Beth Oliver-Secretary-Treasurer, Anna Smith-Reporter, Row 1: L-R: Challyn Rice-AB, Destini Medcalf-AB, Kelley Peters-AB, Hailey Sintikakis-AB, Kaylee Pickens-AB, (AB-Advisory Board)

Pink Out

Our school hosts pink out week every year. It is a week to acknowledge and support breast cancer patients. Our school held many activities, like a pink out pep rally and even a football game, dedicated to breast cancer awareness.

The library club hosted the Poetry Slam on October 12, 2017 at Barnes and Noble in Tupelo. Twenty students slammed their poems. Chloe Evans won first place slamming her poem about a teacher and student in class and their thoughts. Mrs. Megan Garner read the teacher part for Chloe. The Choir also sang and the art students made art projects.

Row 2: L-R: Kaylee Pickens, Kelley Peters, Julianna Vaughn, Palace Roby, Maleigh Collier, Paisley Whitaker, Row 1: L-R: Anna Grace McKinney, Mary Washington, Sarah Raper, T'ajahlon White, Viviann Housley, Tobiasha Coker

The counseling department had their 5th annual Anti-bullying Rally on October 27, 2017. The theme was "Stomp Out Bullying with Good Character." Mr. Eddie Begonia from Family Resource spoke to the student body about the effects of good character to get rid of bullies. Mrs. Angela Smith, jumior high counselor, said,"It is important to have the anti-bully rally for awareness to make sure we are letting students, staff, and parents know the importance of knowing the signs of bullying. We bring in speakers during the week to show them what bullying looks like and how to prevent it."

Anti-Bullying Rally

Emma Mask and Trey O'Neal get the Anti-bullying Rally started.

1. Ethan Bolen donates blood at the annual blood drive hosted at our school.

2. Senior girls, Madison Shumpert and Molly Minich, participated in this year's Charity Ball. Eleme stude orang balloo repres anti-b

pisodes

Students in the Nettleton School District kicked off the fall semester with various activities and clubs. Old friends reunited and new friendships were formed. Students participated in poetry slams, bully rallies, pep rallies, activities like REAL World, and many more fun events. Students also joined clubs like the Library Club, the Tiger Ink Staff, Student Led Devotion, and various others. It was a great start to a brand new school year.

Sharnae Mosley, Anna Costantino, Tykia Johnson, Payton McDaniel, Paige Tucker, and Kanija Givhan calculated the cost of during the Real World workshop.

REAL World

Demarcus Ealy and Jarvell Bowers realized how much they will owe Uncle Sam. This station had to be visited by all the seniors. The Real World program is a workshop for seniors to gain financial literacy before they graduate into life. The workshop allows seniors to roleplay a person's life by receiving an income, and then they are able to visit stations to navigate through what they need versus what they may want to spend their money on.

Epiosodes 🗾