30 Ways to Stand Out

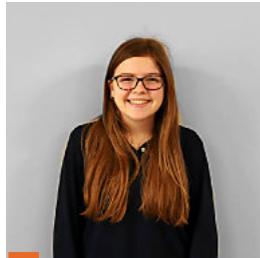

Thirty years can be a long time. "I've seen many changes," Mrs. Debbie Lansdell said. "I guess the most obvious change is the change of location." Mrs. Lansdell was one of the six original teachers that began at TCPS thirty years ago. But, TCPS was not always located off Endville Road. First Evangelical Church, now called Hope Church, was the first location of TCPS back in 1988 when the doors first opened. "The first thing that comes to my mind is the faithfulness of God. He has been with us since August of 1988 and continues to be with us today, May 2019. He is the reason we are still here today. He is the reason we've grown the way we've grown," Mrs. Lansdell said. But why is she still teaching at TCPS? "That's easy," Mrs. Lansdell stated, "I have enjoyed my students. My students quickly become 'my kids.' I love each of them, and they are the reason that I'm still here." She often runs across 'her kids.' "Several months ago, I visited a local church that is pastored by one of my students. Hearing him preach God's Word made me quite proud," Mrs. Lansdell said. Hundreds and hundreds of students have been impacted by the constant willingness of Mrs. Lansdell to teach and to show God's love to everyone.
